

CONVERSATION AROUND MAPS AND STORIES

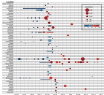

"Listening" with Anna Kelly Knowles and Margaret Wickens Pearce

February 28, 2021 (12:00-12:30 GMT-05:00 (Montreal, Canada) 12:00-12:30 (Berlin, Germany) on Zoom)

In this conversation, two researchers and friends will reflect on how stories figure in their work, in particular, stories that are difficult to tell and difficult to hear.

Map of the Pacific Northwest coast of North America, showing historical and contemporary geographical features, including rivers, coastlines, and place names.

Map of the Pacific Northwest coast of North America, showing historical and contemporary geographical features, including rivers, coastlines, and place names, with a legend indicating different types of geographical features.

Anna Kelly Knowles is a historical geographer engaged in finding methods to answer historical questions and visualize past geographies. She co-founded the Historical Geographies Collaborative in 2007, and currently teaches at the University of Maine.

Margaret Wickens Pearce grew up on Seneca territory at On'gishshaghi (Rushville, NY) and now lives on Potomac territory at Ockrossing (Woodlawn, MD). You can find her at studios@ccf.net.

This conversation is part of a series of conversations around maps and stories organized by the Centre for Big History and Digital Storytelling (CBHDS) in collaboration with the Geomatics lab at Concordia University. The conversation will be moderated by Joseph (Pharmak) Ph. B., students at Concordia University.

Registration (free)

<https://concordia.ca/zoom/meeting/register?code=8620564230&pwd=15071760&meetingID=6048414146&joinMeetingURL=https://concordia.ca/zoom/join>

This series of events is organized by Shelagh O'Connell, Justine Kelly, Lee O'Brien, Ellen Orloff, Joseph (Pharmak) Ph. B., and Timothy White.

